Tuesday April 29th 1884.

Fine bright weather. Ship at anchor in the harbor of [illegible]. The Carpenter came on board and took a mould of the Ship's side to make a Box from which to stop our leak. We heeled the Ship over a bit by filling water casks on deck and shifting about 20 tons of coal from one side to the other. We got the discharge pipe up within about a foot of the water line, before we [illegible]. The Carpenter brought the Box along side about [illegible] and rigged it with tackle all ready for morning. Kept the ship heeled all night as it is perfectly safe here.

Wednesday "April 30"

Fine bright weather. Got work on the leak. Secured the Box in its place and pumped it out, found it answered nicely. Found the "leak" caused by the discharge pipe being broken off both outside and in. The pipe is of lead and the flange is [illegible] so that the water came in all around it. The diameter of the pipe is about 7½ inches and it is about 5 ft under water when the ship is on an even keel. We got the pipe out and made a new flange on it and put it back and secured it as well as possible. Got through about [illegible] and [illegible] the box and righted the ship [illegible] running water. Slept all night again.

Sailed and worked until four A.M. Became becalmed and drifted with the tide towards the North-east. Broke out the Fire Hold and burned off some filing the Boilers Lat 60-03 North Long 179-22 East.

Saturday May 10th

Sailed West North West until Became becalmed and drifted with the tide to the East. Got up steam and went about three miles (at 2 P.M. got up steam and went about three miles) Then stopped more than once and sailed with the tide which carried us back to the Eastward in steering the Right Course. At this time we observed that year about the Sun and we Find it was fast gaining on the usual way of doing getting on a head) We reckoned it to be about 4 P.M. when first time we observed it.

Sloop "Pearl" Steam Tug "Ogden"

Sunday "May 25" 1884.

Stuck many icebergs. Ship fast in the Ice and Impossible to move. Sent a boat out with Pilot to find clear water.

Weather lightning a little shows clear water to the Eastward.

Monday "May 26"

Still a thick Fog. Still fast in the Ice. Light airs from the Eastward and Calms.

Tuesday "May 27"

Thick Fog. Ship fast until about 4 P.M. then got up Steam and steamed about 10 miles about N.N.E and again brought up

Wednesday "May 28"

Fine light Northerly. Steamed nearly all day with frequent stops to repair the Stem which bothers me very much indeed.

At Eleven Oclock P.M stuck fast again. Saw the land to the Northward

Thursday "May 29"

Light winds from the Northward Calms. The Ship has been fast in the Ice all day with out a motion. There is no clear water in sight from aloft. Land in sight in Lat 61-50 North.

Friday "May 30"

The same. Ship still fast in the Ice. "Navarre"

Saturday and Sunday
May 31st and June 1st

Ice still closely packed. Ship fast. The two Barks still in sight. "Navarre" and "Hadeng"

Fast in the Ice off Cape "Navarin"

Monday June 2" 1884

Weather fine. Wind from S.W. Left me the Ice. Fog very thick at times. Land close by but out of sight. The Tuscan returned to Unly again. Plenty of Ducks but the Lupis Bay not in condition to take advantage of them.

Tuesday June 3"

Weather still good. Lupis working to the N.E. saw Steamer fast in the Ice. Called it the Lucerne. At 8 o'clock P.M. Again stuck fast.

Wednesday June 4"

Light N.W. winds. Stuck a head about 8 P.M. and steered N.E. until midnight. N.E. winds all sail west. Steam.

Friday June 5"

Stuck fog. Worked along until we saw the Lucerne fast in the Ice. We kedged up to her as the fog lifted a little and we saw Cape Navarin about 20 miles off.
